MEET our Teacher

A graduate of St. Joseph's Convent, Krystle Dircksen furthered her studies at Musicians Institute in Hollywood, California, where she majored in Vocal Performance with an emphasis in Recording. Her training led to notable experiences, including opening for Yolanda Adams in 2007 and interning at a prestigious recording studio, where she worked with renowned producers and recorded her own EP album, which was nominated for Best Pop Album of the Year.

Her greatest achievement, however, is returning home to share her knowledge with students of all ages, inspiring them to realize their potential. Currently teaching Forms 1–3 at Trimont Rosewood and Arbor, she believes music education enhances academic performance, fostering creativity, self-esteem, and communication skills. Her passion for music drives her to positively impact students' lives, and she finds fulfillment in witnessing the confidence and joy that music brings to them.
